A Grand Old Sentimentalist.

MR. GEORGE LANSBURY'S MESSAGE ON 73rd BIRTHDAY.

OPPOSITION LEADER ON LIFE AND RELIGION.

BY THE RIGHT HON. GEORGE LANSBURY, M.P.

Years ago, when my mind was just opening and books became a treasure-house of knowledge and understanding. I discovered that all sorts of people wrote about religion, ethics, and history, giving conflicting views and thoughts about creeds and theories of life and conduct.

Sometimes I believed, or thought I believed, that there was no God, no hereafter, and that life here and now was the beginning and end for me.

Then, reading another book, my mind would go back to a belief in God and eternity.

Now, after a long experience of life, I am less dogmatic about many things. Yet for myself and for my own satisfaction there are some things which become more and more certain.

I have no doubt about the existence of God, the highest and best my weak intelligence knows.

I am sure that the thing we call prayer is real, and is summed up in the words: "Prayer is the soul's sincere desire uttered or unexpressed."

I am also confident that in some way which I cannot explain life is eternal.

Because this is so, I accept as literally true the teachings of the great religious teachers and prophets of the ages, of whom the greatest and most to be accepted is Jesus. He has taught me that love is the one redeeming power in the world, and however much we may legislate, however much we may restrain, there can be, will be, no peace, contentment and happiness in the world until love is the law of our life.

Statesmen, economists, and we, the common people, argue and quarrel; we talk of intellect no against heart, and cry aloud that our brains and not our sentiment must guide us—forgetting all the time that the world has never yet tried the more excellent way of love, as laid down by Jesus, Paul, St. Francis, and Tolstoi.

To-day the whole world is hungering and thirsting after peace. Sometimes it seems as if I can hear the call which over 2,000 years ago was given to the children of Israel: "Turn ye, turn ye, why will you die?" because as I see things that is the call to us to-day.

Turn from your vain, selfish search after personal wealth, and instead, learn of Christ that real wealth is commonwealth and true happiness is only to be found in sharing.

We must understand that Christianity is not on trial to-day: it has never yet been tried, except in the case of individuals.

Do not imagine that I have no respect for those whose lives are spent serving God in the way which to them seems best.

But for me the teaching of Christ must be lived among men and women earning their daily bread, and among nations in their relationships with each other. Everything which prevents this must be removed. We must clear the road so that all may become one great family.

In this connection I like to think of St. Francis bursting the bonds which tied him to a rich home, and going forth, not into seclusion, but out into the world of men to live as part of the great human family, serving God in service to his fellows.

We must capture that spirit. We must, if we profess and call ourselves Christians, make up our minds so to live that we ask nothing for ourselves that we are not willing to share with others.

It may sound hard to say this. We must remember, however, the story of the rich young man, who went away sorrowful; he followed the lead which his hand gave, instead of the lead our Lord gave, and was very sorrowful.

I cannot accept the view that following Christ's command brings misery, because, in my view, His teaching has the promise of this life as well as of the life to come.

This is proved by the fact that giving lip-service to religion and at the same time ignoring its precepts, as applied to everyday life, has landed us where we are.

Surely, then, it is possible for the most intellectual and the most ignorant to see that it ought to be both our duty and our joy to turn round altogether, and in a co-operative manner, and instead of selfishly thinking of ourselves, determine that we will follow the teaching of Him who spoke as no man had ever spoken before, and base our lives on love and comradeship.

Whom do we really respect most in the history of the world?

Whose name in our inmost thoughts do we revere the most?

Great financiers, great conquerors?

These may have their place on the roll of fame, but their works perish. Caesar and Hannibal, Alexander and Napoleon, are names of great conquerors. The empires they founded have faded and crumbled into the dust.

But the truths which Christ taught still live. His life still lives. So also do the life and work of the greatest of his followers, St. Francis of Assisi, because in spite of our weak, wretched inconsistent lives, in our hearts we know that love is better than hate; that sharing is better than mere possessions; and that the pursuit of personal gain is dust and ashes.

This world is full of material wealth, full of everything needed to make us happy. But it is full also of misery, hatred and greed. Why?

The answer is simple—we will not accept as literally true the simple truth that we are all children.

ENGINEERING AND BUILDING

THE ELECTRIC TRAM.

HOLDS ITS OWN AGAINST
'BUSES IN CANADA.

Halifax, Canada.—Optimism concerning the future of the electric tram as the mainstay of urban transportation was expressed at the annual meeting here of the Canadian Electric Railways Association, whose name was changed at the same meeting to "The Canadian Transit Association."

Mr. E. B. Thornton, of Montreal, president of the Association, declared that, notwithstanding inroads on street railway transportation by buses and private automobiles, the electric car "remains the backbone of mass transportation," and the future held no warrant for pessimism. Electric railways in Canada, he said, carried 791,389,104 revenue passengers in 1927. In 1929 a peak was reached of 836,729,651; in 1930 there was a decrease to 783,897,880 and last year a further decrease to 729,920,286. Mr. Thornton believed the downward trend seemed to have reached its lowest level and he saw definite signs of stabilization which ought to precede recovery.

The average fare in Canada is 6.10 cents, or just over three pence. In the United States it is 7.85 cents.

Mr. Thornton expressed the belief that substitution of bus for rail lines appeared likely only in areas of light traffic where small units at short intervals best could meet the public demand. He warned municipalities against too liberal granting of taxicab licences, claiming such a course was unfair to the electric railway companies which which did 80 per cent of the mass transport business and in addition tended to increase traffic congestion and street perils.

SELF-PRIMING CENTRIFUGAL MARINE PUMPS.

A NOTABLE NEW BRITISH DESIGN.

Of great interest in the field of marine engineering is a self-priming centrifugal pump, with vertical spindle and self-contained electric motor, suitable for bilge, ballast, and wash-deck work, as well as emergency bilge and fire purposes, that has recently been placed on the market by the Pulsometer Engineering Co., Ltd., of Reading.

The outstanding feature is a rotary exhaustor which can be thrown in and out of operation by a hand clutch, and a complete range of pumps of different sizes is available. As typical of the performance the standard 5" unit will deliver for example 75 tons per hour against a total head of 83 feet or 115 tons against 55 feet. The drive is by means of a 16 B.H.P. D/C motor, running at 1300-1600 revs. per minute, with shunt regulation, forming a compact and completely self-contained unit which is equally suit for fresh water or salt water, and in Diesel vessels can be used for such purposes as jacket cooling.

Also the pump is gunmetal, of single impeller design, with the casing slit along the vertical centre line and supported in a substantial steel frame and base. Further, hydraulic balancing is included, while the weight of the rotating parts is taken by a thrust bearing at the top of the motor, the bottom end of the pump shaft running in a lignum vitae bearing fitted in the lower part of the pump casing.

The packing in the stuffing box and the bearing at the lower end of the pumps are lubricated with water under pressure from the circuit, and in addition there is provided a large capacity, spring-loaded grease cup to give initial lubrication to the stuffing box on starting before the water lubrication comes into action.

Early Dismantled.

Noteworthy is that the whole pump can be completely dismantled in 30 minutes, without disturbing the electric motor or any of the pipes, both the suction and the delivery branches being in the back half of the casing. Between the pump and the coupling the vertical shaft passes through a gear box made of silicon-aluminium alloy fitted with a set of skew gears having machine-cut teeth, to transmit the drive to the horizontal spindle of the exhaustor, this gearing running in an oil bath, while the friction clutch is fitted inside the gear box and operated by an outside hand wheel.

Also the rotary exhaustor is of the double-acting water ring type and consists of a rotor having a number of radial vanes running in an elliptical casing, being kept in operation until the air is evacuated from the suction pipe and the water drawn up to the inlet of the centrifugal pump, which will then start to deliver. As already indicated, the main points of this highly interesting design are that the exhaustor is of the rotary type and can be de-clutched by hand and thrown out of action thus reducing wear and tear and saving power, in addition to constituting a great improvement in the way of silent running, especially for passenger vessels.

A MODEL BRITISH FACTORY.

MODERN MANUFACTURING METHODS.

What would the stern industrialists of the nineteenth century have thought of a factory which provided a ball room and theatre for its employees, tennis courts and croquet lawns, and those for its site a pleasant countryside with flowers and shrubs worthy of a private house in the gardens round its walls? Actually, such conditions would have been entirely beyond their comprehension, for the study of the psychology of the worker and his reaction to his surroundings is essentially a post-War development, just as the longing for the open air and the cult for physical fitness.

Welfare Pavilion.

The most striking testimony to this modern trend is to be found at the Ovaline factory in Hertfordshire, where the welfare of the workers is studied to the utmost, for it is realised that upon this depends finally the high quality of the product, and nothing less than perfection is the ultimate aim. To this end, therefore, the Welfare Pavilion, as it is called, includes a doctor, dentist, ultra violet ray room, rest room, where any employee may receive expert attention, while the canteen supplies more material requirements.

In the Factory.

In the factory itself the first and lasting impression is one of absolute cleanliness. To gain some idea of the scope of this factory it is necessary to quote a few figures. For instance, there are over a thousand employees at King's Langley; some 50,000 eggs are required daily; 40,000 gallons of milk are used each week, while this concern is probably the largest consumer of barley malt in the world; and, for packing purposes about 16,000 sheets of tin are needed every day.

Ingenious Machinery

The ingenuity of some of the machines is uncanny and it is interesting to learn that many have been designed and constructed on the premises. One automatic tin-making machine turns out 180 tins a minute, another inserts the paper bags into the tins, while yet another, meticulously copying the actual movements of an operator's fingers, folds the paper wrappers on the outside of the tins. As far as is humanly possible, nothing is touched by hand and, in this way, every precaution is taken to safeguard the health of the public.

GRAVING DOCK EXTENSIONS AT GENOA.

NEEDED FOR NEW ITALIAN LINERS.

An interesting extension of the length of a graving dock from 703 ft. to 833 ft. has recently been completed in Genoa. The 703 ft. dock was actually only brought into commission in 1928, but the rapid increase in the length of Italian transatlantic liners necessitated the provision of accommodation for docking 800 ft. ships, and it was decided to meet the situation by increasing the length of the new dock. Up till the year 1928, the two graving docks at Genoa were operated by the Società Esercizio Bacini which owns the Riva Trigoso Shipyard. At that time it became clear that further accommodation was necessary, the larger of the two existing docks which had a length of 680 ft., being unable to accommodate some of the ships entering the port, which were accordingly forced to avail themselves of the Naval Dockyard at La Spezia. As a result of discussions between the Port Authority, the Consorzio Autonomo del Porto di Genova, and the Bacini Company in 1928, it was accordingly decided that a third, 793 ft., graving dock should be constructed. This, as already stated, was completed in 1928.

In Use While Extensions in Progress.

This dock, originally 703 ft. long, was constructed by the Società Italiana Lavori Marittimi di Roma, and the extension was carried out by the same firm. A condition of the contract was that the utilisation of the dock by shipping should not be interfered with during the lengthening. The work was carried out by sinking six caissons at distances of some 20-m. ahead of the existing end wall. Owing to the nature of the site and the fact that the excavation had to be carried close to the face of the existing wet dock wall, it was necessary to work under compressed air. When the caissons were in place, connection was made between them and between the inner two, and the existing graving dock side-walls by means of sheet piling. In this way a curved trench was formed in which the new end wall was built. As the dock was in commission while the whole of this work was being carried on, precautions had to be taken to support any parts of the old end wall which were exposed, owing to the unbalanced pressure of the water (Continued on next column.)

SUIYUAN IRRIGATION SCHEME.

MOTOR PUMPS REPLACE DRAGON FOOT-PUMPS.

The outstanding construction project in Suiyuan Province, China, during recent years has been the Saratsi irrigation development, officially known as the "Min Sen" or "People's Livelihood Drainage Canal," the engineering on which has been conducted by the China International Famine Relief Commission in conjunction with the provincial authorities. The completion in June, 1931, of the main canal and 8 laterals brought irrigation to an area of between 250,000 and 333,000 acres.

The main canal is 50 miles in length and, with its 14 laterals, totals 287 miles of irrigation canals. Construction work on the remaining 6 laterals has progressed during the year and they were expected to be opened during the spring of 1932. Twenty-three bridges have been built over the canal, and four water gates erected to regulate the water flow.

Though mass labour has been used throughout on this project, an interesting innovation was the use of three kerosene-engine centrifugal pumps of American make for draining wet stretches, replacing to that extent the primitive "dragon" foot-power pumps in "more general" use on the work. Three Chinese-made kerosene engine pumps also were operated on the job. This was the first time that either the native-style foot-power pump or the kerosene-engine pump had been introduced into Suiyuan Province. The cost of this irrigation project approximated Chinese 750,000, half of which was contributed by the Suiyuan provincial government and the rest by the China International Famine Relief Commission on a loan basis.

When the dock was filled. When the new work was completed the old end wall was cut through.

Longest Dock in Mediterranean.

With the completion of this extension, Genoa has the longest mercantile dry-dock on the Mediterranean; the next longest being the 680 ft. dock at Naples, followed by the 586-ft. dock at Marseilles. Gibraltar has a naval dry-dock 363 ft. long, but only 91 ft. wide, as compared with the 105 ft. of the Genoa dock. Venice has a naval dock 820 ft. long, Malta one of 796 ft., and La Spezia one of 702 ft.—Engineering.

Cardiff Engineering Exhibition.

The eleventh annual Engineering Exhibition will be held at the Greyfriars Hall, Cardiff, under the auspices of the South Wales Institute of Engineers, from November 23 to December 3 next. The exhibits will include steam boilers and engines, electrical-engineering plant, air-compressors, welding plant, machine tools, metallurgical plant and goliery installations and accessories. Full particulars regarding the Exhibition can be obtained from the secretary of the Institute, Parry-place, Cardiff.

Sydney and Brisbane Railway.

On May 3, the first through express train arrived at the Central Station, Sydney, New South Wales, from Brisbane, Queensland. Through communication between the two cities has been rendered possible by the completion of a bridge across the River Clarence. Prior to this, passengers had to be ferried across the river by means of launches. The completion of the bridge has saved an hour on the journey, which now takes 21 hours 18 minutes from north to south, and 20 hours 30 minutes from south to north. The line is standard gauge.

Launch of H.M.S. Diana.

H.M. Destroyer Diana was launched from the Jarrow shipyard of Messrs. Palmers Shipbuilding and Iron Company, Limited, on June 10. The vessel, which has been built under the 1930 programme, has a length of 317 ft. 9 in., a beam of 33 ft., and a standard displacement of 1,375 tons, on a mean draught of 8 ft. 6 in. Her propelling machinery, constructed at the builders' engine works at Jarrow, will have an estimated horse-power, on full-power trial, of 33,000, at which the vessel will attain a speed of 35½ knots when loaded to her standard displacement. The armament includes four 4.7-in. guns and one 3-in. anti-aircraft gun.

A Cinema Invention.

The success of the cinema and the development of the talking picture have given rise to a demand for home cinema apparatus.

The Talkiefone is a British invention approximately the size of an ordinary wireless set. The cinema model is about the size of an ordinary portable wireless set while the studio model is divided into two parts in order that the weight may not be inconveniently heavy. They are both priced in the United Kingdom at 25 guineas. The apparatus comprises everything necessary to make a talking picture on disc, and has attachments to fit to any type of camera projector 16 or 9 mm.

New Copper-Refining Company.

The establishment of important works at Prescot (Lancashire) is foreshadowed by the announcement of a new company, Messrs. British Copper Refiners, Limited, for the purpose of producing high-conductivity copper for electrical purposes. The company, it is stated, is closely associated with Messrs. British Insulated Cables, Limited, Prescot, and it is claimed that the refinery will be the first works of its kind in Great Britain. At the outset, the maximum output of the plant will be 1,000 tons per week, but provision is being made whereby extensions to buildings and machinery can be easily carried out. A start has already been made on the site, and it is anticipated that the new works will commence production before the end of the year.

F.M.S. Tyre Imports.

Complete 1931 official import statistics showed that imports of pneumatic tires into British Malaya declined by approximately one-third in volume and nearly 50 per cent. in value, as compared with 1930. Total net imports of pneumatic outer covers amounted to 103,197 units valued at $81,108,740, against 151,001 units valued at $81,909,492.

THE ZUYDER ZEE NOW AN INLAND LAKE.

AN 18 MILE DYKE.

It is not often that the engineer works on such a scale as to necessitate the revision of maps, but the completion of the Zuider Zee reclamation scheme, an important step towards which was made on Saturday, May 28, will certainly affect even small-scale maps in the immediate future. The step just alluded to was the closing of the main dyke between the one-time island of Wieringen and Friesland. The North Sea is now definitely denied entrance to the centre of Holland, and that part of it, famous in history and celebrated in popular song, and known as the Zuider Zee, has now lost its identity and has become an enclosed body of tideless water, the Yssel-lake, which is to be itself reduced by further extensive reclamations of land in the enclosed area. Although the dyke, some 18 miles in length from shore to shore, is now continuous, it must be understood that it is not completed. The core only, of piled-up boulder clay, has been closed by dumping the clay in the final gap by means of floating grab cranes, and the facing of it, together with the construction of a railway and road on the top, yet remain to be done.

A comprehensive account of the complete scheme will be found in Engineering, vol. cxxix, on pages 663, 759, and 821 (1930), and the views given in this of the closing of the final gap of the main dyke of the north-west polder, will convey a good idea of the operation.

Metal Production in Canada.

Toronto, Canada.—Output of gold from the mines of Canada in the present year will have a value of more than $12,000,000, according to the prediction made by Mr. E. J. Carlyle, Secretary-Treasurer of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, in an address at Sudbury, in the mineral area of Northern Ontario.

Mr. Carlyle added that Canada now was producing its own refined metals and was in a position to undertake the production of combinations of metals. He expected enormous development in the next few years in the making of new metals and the finding of new uses for metals and alloys.

Official figures of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that Canada stands fourth in world production of lead, copper and zinc, and second in aluminum. In nickel Canada leads the world, producing 51,884 short tons out of a total of 59,390 in 1930, the latest year for which complete figures are available.

JAPANESE CHARGED.

"I should like to explain to you why I have selected a small item. There are really two reasons; one is the sum is easily proved and another is that it is not sufficient for me to prove a general deficiency in order to establish a case of embezzlement."

"The accused was paid for the accounts due to Gande Price in three different ways, sometimes by crossed cheque to Gande Price. Sometimes by a compradore order payable to bearer, and in other cases, by cash. As you can quite understand, in the cases where crossed cheques were paid, there was no defalcation as he did not do anything with them. Where compradore orders were given to him or where cash was paid, then he failed to account for what had been given him."

The case was adjourned.

WORK OF FOREIGN MISSIONS.

FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES.

London.—The peculiar difficulties under which the missionary societies are labouring at this time of financial crisis were discussed fully and frankly, but in a most optimistic spirit at the annual conference of British Missionary Societies which was held at Hoddesdon, near London.

The essential problem at the moment said Mr. Wilson Cash, the secretary of the Church Missionary Society, was not the balancing of the budget at home, but the welfare of the churches abroad. At the same time the societies had a special responsibility for evangelising England. "Bring the pagan people of England into the churches and vitalise them," he said, "and you will at the same time be enlarging the missionary constituency."

The estimate was quoted by one speaker that not more than 20 per cent of those already in the churches were recruited into the army of those who support foreign missions, while another declared that a contribution of two shillings from every member of the church congregations would wipe out the deficit of the missionary societies.

It was cheering to hear from the Secretary of the Conference that contributions during last year to the chief societies had gone down by only 3 per cent. On the other hand he spoke of the constantly widening gap between the work undertaken and the income raised to carry it on. For in the last twenty years while the number of workers sent out by the five chief societies had increased by 30 per cent the aggregate only 18 per cent in the first ten years of income of those societies had increased by that period, and there had remained practically stationary.

RE-BUILDING MANILA.

WORK STARTS ON NEW DEPARTMENT STORE.

Demolition of the old Gutierrez Building on the Escolta between the Lyric Theatre and the Crystal Arcade, will start to-day, says the Manila Bulletin of July 18, to give way to a modern store and office building which will house the Brias-Roxas department store.

In two weeks it is expected that the foundation of the new structure will be laid. While no figures have been given out, it is estimated that the new edifice will cost about half a million pesos. According to Enrique Brias Roxas, general manager of the Brias-Roxas concern, the new structure will be completed early in February, next year, when he will move the greater part of the Brias-Roxas establishment there. The old building which will be demolished was purchased by the Brias-Roxas interests some months ago. It was erected in 1906 and for many years was occupied by the defunct Manila Times.

ST. ANDREW SOCIETY IN LONDON.

The plaint is often heard that Scots have little interest in their national history. The Committee of St. Andrew Society was gratified, therefore, when a large gathering of members visited Westminster Abbey to hear Mr. Ian Stewart, F.S.A.-Scot., heraldic writer to the Society, speak on the historic buildings with Scottish associations, special permission having been obtained from the authorities. Mr. Stewart gave a very comprehensive outline of the history of the various articles of Scottish connection in the Abbey, after which tea was enjoyed at the White Heather Café.

NURMI QUALIFIES FOR MARATHON.

Viiupri, Fin., June 27.—Paavo Nurmi has served notice on the world's best marathoners that it will take record time to stop him in the Olympic Games by running a short marathon of 40,200 meters (approximately 25 miles, 40 yards) in 2h. 22m. 4s.

The distance he ran is over a mile short of the Olympic distance of 25 miles 385 yards, but at the clip Nurmi was going he would have finished out the distance under the Olympic record of 2h. 32m. 45s., set at Antwerp in 1920 by Hannes Kolehmainen. Nurmi averaged around six minutes for each of the 25 miles he ran.

By his victory, won in the final Olympic trials here yesterday, Nurmi qualified to represent Finland at Los Angeles. It will be his fourth venture in the international games.

COMBINE'S LOSS.

NO DIVIDEND FOR GRAMOPHONE COMPANY.

It is a sign of the times that Electric and Musical Industries, the gigantic gramophone combine, will not pay the dividend on its preference capital for the six months to July 15, a matter which calls for no more than £13,800.

The company comprises a merger of the Columbia Graphophone Company and the Gramophone Company (H.M.V.), and has an issued capital of £6,265,640, of which £5,803,640 is in 21 ordinary shares.

So recently as the year ended June 30, 1930, the combined profits of the two undertakings totalled £1,422,000. Operations for the current fiscal year, the directors state, will result in a loss.

HONOLULU TRAGEDY.

Honolulu.—Alejandro Bocot, 43, Filipino, to-day stabbed his wife to death and then attempted suicide, slashing his own abdomen, while his children looked on.

He was sent to a hospital in a critical condition.

The couple recently planned to return to the Philippines. However, the wife changed her mind and began a suit for divorce. Bocot evidently was enraged by this and killed her in a crazed moment.

The divorce summons showed the couple married in Cebu, P.I., in August, 1913.

V.D.A. ANNUAL RE-UNION IN LONDON.

WARM WELCOME TO BISHOP DUPPUY.

TWELVE YEARS' WORK IN HONG KONG REVIEWED.

Not even the Bishop's retirement from the Farthest East to the peaceful pastures of Worcester, nor the much regretted absence through illness of Mrs. Duppuv from the gathering, could damp the meeting of the friends of South China in glorious Ascot weather at Victoria House on June 15. Perhaps the knowledge that the original president and founder of the Association would be in the centre of England instead of in Far Cathay, and the Society must strenuously continue its efforts to help the Colonial Church and the young native Church in South China, although under new and untried leadership, mitigated the sense of loss. As Vice-President the Canon of Worcester will no doubt inspire the V.D.A. in the future as he has in the past.

The attendance appeared to be larger than ever, and, after the most interesting addresses of the Bishop and the Rev. P. Jenkins, very animated conversation continued for over an hour.

BISHOP OF VICTORIA ON CHRISTIANITY IN CHINA.

In the morning the Bishop, assisted by Archdeacon Barnett, Canon Denis Fletcher and Rev. C. B. Shann, conducted a Celebration at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, at which Mr. Shann preached on "The Building of the Body of Christ," and urged his hearers to continue to help in the building of the young Church in South China, now suffering from the resignation of Bishop Duppuv and the severe retrenchment policy of the Church Missionary Society, and spoke of the progressive responsibility undertaken by the Chinese themselves, who still needed guidance and help.

After a sociable lunch in an adjacent restaurant, members and friends assembled at Victoria House, where the Archdeacon of Warwick, the Ven. H. St. B. Holland, took the chair.

The Chairman's Tribute to Dr. Duppuv.

The Chairman said—I think we have all come to look upon the V.D.A. Annual Reunion as quite one of the bright spots among the many meetings we attend during the year, and I think I carry most of those who have been at these meetings from year to year with me when I say that it is really one of the most delightful experiences of the whole year. It has generally been an occasion on which we have been thinking of the work that our Bishop has been doing in China, but now has come the day when for the last time he comes to speak to us as the Bishop of Victoria, Hong Kong. I believe he does not resign till the end of this month, so he is still our Bishop. It is very extraordinary but it just seems about like two minutes since some of us saw him off from one of the London stations—dictating directions hard to a stenographer or even as the train was absolutely moving out of the platform. That scene will never be erased from my memory, and here he is, at the end of twelve years' service laying it down, and from our personal point of view making us glad by the fact that he is coming to quite the most central part of England, which we always say is in Warwickshire and Worcestershire, and we are going to be able to renew the personal contact that so many of us have missed in the years he has been out there.

We always knew, whatever our spiritual condition might be here, that still he out there in Hong Kong was just going all out for the cause. There are very few people who have established such close contact and kept it through all these years with their supporters here, and it is because of what he was and did—we don't want to lavish great encomiums this afternoon—that I think you would like me to say something to him on your behalf to let him know how we have enjoyed this twelve years of work with him, and how we do regret that this particular chapter in the history of Hong Kong has come to a close; but we look upon the close of that chapter with the knowledge that it has gone on building up that foundation of the Kingdom of God in Hong Kong which shall enable that Kingdom to be built according to God's plan, with the certainty that will mean the coming of His Kingdom in China.

The Bishop's Reply.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop of Victoria, Hong Kong, said: You, Mr. Chairman, said that it seemed only like two minutes ago that you were saying goodbye to me as a newly fledged Bishop. It seems to me like only two minutes ago when I was in the Albert Hall, and that hymn which we have just been singing was then being sung, and the announcement was made that I was going forth to a land I did not know at all, to be Bishop of Hong Kong.

Now as I lay down my work as Bishop of this diocese, three words will best describe my thoughts. The first of these words is Thankfulness, the second is Worthwhileness, and the third is Constancy. Thankfulness, Worthwhileness, Constancy. The prevailing thought in my mind to-day is one of great thankfulness, thankfulness to God for the great trust He has given me in the charge for twelve years of what I shall always regard as one of the most interesting dioceses in the world. No one can have spent twelve years in an office such as mine without having his life enriched and his sympathies enlarged. There has been on the one hand the touch with my own kith and kin in a busy colonial life with all its many interests and contacts. This of itself has been an enriching experience. Then there has been the touch with a great civilization to which before I had been an entire stranger, and I have been allowed to try and serve in the early stages of its development the Chinese Church, to which Mr. Jenkins and Mr. Shann referred, Mr. Jenkins this afternoon, and Mr. Shann this morning.

Hong Kong Friends.

If I may I would like to illustrate what I mean by a few homely incidents taken from our last days in Hong Kong. It seems only an hour ago that I was standing in Government House, saying goodbye to my Chinese friends and to my British friends. What touched me most was to realize that the Roman Catholic Bishop was there, and all the Free Church ministers were there without exception, and the Sub-Vicar Apostolic sent his greeting also.

Just as our ship was about to sail, Japanese Christians appeared, bringing a present to my wife in token of goodwill, and it touched my heart not a little when three of the Chinese clergy brought me a picture worked in silk of the Good Shepherd. That made me feel that somehow or other the work had not been in vain. They had seen for what we stand and the things for which Christ stands. And so you can't have been out there for twelve years without having your sympathies enlarged and your interests greatly broadened. And then, I want to thank all of you for the way you have stood by me through all these years: not me, of course, but the work, and I could not have listened to you saying what you did, Mr. Chairman, unless I knew that your words applied to my fellow-workers and were meant to include them.

I want to thank you for standing by. Mr. Chairman, I should like to begin by thanking you and your fellow commissioners for all the work you have done.

I want to thank you who have stood solidly by me all the time, because I know that to a very large extent the support that has been given to me in England and the work in England has been due to the hearts that have been pulsing away at this end, and I know that we owe not a few of our recruits that have come to us to the work that has been done by my commissaries here in England.

And then I want to thank every one of you for all that you have done.

Three months ago I had a long talk in Hong Kong with the Dean of Canterbury, Dr. Hewlett Johnson; he was on his way to visit Hankow and other areas in China damaged by last year's floods. Last week I picked up an article he had written giving impressions of his visit to China. The article ended with these striking words: "Christianity is neither dead nor futile; it is the most living force in China to-day and productive of China's most influential thinking."

Christianity is neither dead nor futile; it is the most living force in China to-day and productive of China's most influential thinking. We who have been in the midst of things cannot see the trend of things so well as a new-comer, but I believe that what the Dean of Canterbury said is true and I believe that Christianity has been productive of China's most influential thinking.

BANK APPEAL CASE.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

The Full Court of Appeal yesterday morning reserved judgment in the case in which the Banque Chinoise pour le Commerce et l'Industrie sought to quash the judgment of Mr. Justice Wood who awarded $42,000 to Mrs. Chu Shuk as damages for the alleged wrongful sale of her property under a deed of mortgage.

The case had been proceeding since Monday last.

One hour was sufficient for Mr. Jenkin in which to reply to the three main points in the case for the plaintiff respondent. He dealt with the construction of the deed, the consent of the plaintiff to banking facilities, and the correct valuation of the property.

Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K.C., and Mr. R. C. H. Lim, instructed by Mr. C. Bulmer Johnson, appeared for the French Bank, while Mr. Eldon Potter K.O. with Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Mr. D. L. Strollett appeared for the plaintiff.

JAPANESE CHARGED.

ALLEGED DEFALCATIONS FROM GANDE PRICE.

BIG AMOUNT INVOLVED.

Nasai Ije Tani, a Japanese, formerly employed by Messrs. Gande Price and Company, wine merchants, was charged before Mr. E. I. Wynne Jones at Central Magistracy yesterday with counts of embezzlement, uttering a false die and with falsification of accounts.

Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith prosecuted for the Crown, while Mr. Leo D'Almada e Castro, junior, defended.

Outlining the case for the prosecution, Mr. Whyte Smith said:—"The accused had been in the employ of Messrs. Gande Price for some years. His duties were to go out and get orders from Japanese ships and then, having got these orders, he had to get the stock of liquors or tobacco out of bond and see that the goods were delivered to the ships and was responsible for getting payment of the accounts. He was paid partly by salary and partly by commission."

"About the tenth day of each month he was supposed to hand in to Gande Price and Company a list of outstanding accounts. On April 11, the manager asked him for such an account. On April 12, he handed in an account, which, I will submit, is almost entirely false. That forms the subject of the first count of making a fraudulent entry in the accounts."

O.S.K. Account.

"For the purpose of these proceedings I have selected one item in the account. You will see that $1,278.40 is supposed to be due by the O.S.K. s.s. Buenos Aires Maru. An official from the O.S.K. will say that no such account was outstanding at that date. On receipt of this list of accounts outstanding, the manager of Gande Price was surprised to see what large sums were outstanding and the length of time they had been outstanding. He asked the accused to go to the O.S.K. and N.Y.K. to get them to chop the various items to show that they admitted liability for the amounts stated. That was on April 12. The accused took the list away and returned the next day with it chopped in several places. I shall prove that these chops were forgeries. That forms the subject of the second and third charges—that of uttering false dice."

To Avert Suspicion?

"That happened on April 13. For the next four days, the accused was not at the office. On April 18, he came in and paid $500 which he said had been due by the s.s. Santos Maru. There is a sum due by the Santos Maru on the list and you will notice that the amount alleged to be due by this ship is the largest one. My suggestion is that this payment of $500 was probably in order to avert suspicion, because, this being the biggest item on the list, Gande Price were more likely to investigate that than the other amounts."

On the forenoon of Saturday, April 23, the accused again looked into the office when he said that he would hand in other sum that he had collected on Monday the 25th. He did not return to the office and the next that was heard of him was that he was in Shanghai.

Sergeant Groves of the Hong Kong Police was sent up to Shanghai and returned on the same boat with the accused, who was arrested on arrival in Hong Kong.

Embezzlement Charge.

"When it was found that the accused had left the Colony, investigations were made and it was found that many sums that had been paid to him by the O.S.K. and N.Y.K., in particular the former, had not been accounted for by him, and I have taken simply one of the items—that of $294.00 received by the N.Y.K.—which forms the subject of the 4th charge, the embezzlement charge."

THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

The opening of the Ottawa Conference was extremely well staged, and the speeches of the Canadian Prime Minister, Mr. R. B. BENNETT, and of Mr. STANLEY BALDWIN, gave the proceedings a good start. There was nothing at all startling in either pronouncement, the two statesmen contenting themselves with reiterating the avowed objects of the Conference, namely, the lowering of tariff barriers within the Empire, and the promotion of trade both between members of the Commonwealth of British Nations, and also between the British Empire and foreign countries.

The problems lying behind these worthy, if not very profound sentiments, are extraordinarily complex, and therein lies the reason for the Conference. Five main committees have been appointed and behind closed doors the delegates will talk, frankly, fully, and with good temper about things that a public man dare not even mention when the World is listening.

What we all know is that an attempt will be made to break down tariff walls in such a way that the breach will open the flood gates of trade and effect a world-wide destruction of these pernicious barriers.

Tariffs are based on the principle that it is better to make things at Home than to buy them from abroad. If a person sells more than he buys he acquires a surplus, that takes the form of some kind of investment, and in the good old days, brought him in money. This was sound enough while production, the world over, was on the increase. After all, the majority of the human race lived on a low standard, and the world capacity for absorption of the products of labour seemed illimitable. Optimistic persons visioned the time when Chinese peasants would drive their own cars and live in six roomed villas. That would be good both for the peasants, the car trade, shipping and so forth.

After all, had not America solved the problem of poverty by producing at an enormous capacity, selling abroad, and putting the profits into luxuries? If America could do all this behind tariff walls, why could not other countries follow suit? They have followed suit, and we are all painfully aware of the result. Something that no one saw in the mighty scramble for wealth has gone badly astray. Those in work have to do more and to receive less than they did a few years ago; the army of unemployed grows bigger, and humanity is unable to share out the wealth that it creates with over-abundance.

Nations have been creating industries on the idea that an industry is invariably an asset. A classical philosopher would be unable to see that the "Black Country" is an improvement on a pleasant, prosperous and self-supporting agricultural district. He would say that the artificial stimulation of, say, a motor car factory, with sketchy prospects of selling the second rate cars produced in a place without either natural advantages or a population with industrial traditions, was like growing apples under glass or cultivating herrings in an excavated lake, instead of buying them from North Sea fishermen.

Tangles of that nature will have to be discussed at Ottawa. Canada wishes to sell her produce to England, and the delegates will have to try and decide what are the best lines of trade to encourage on either side. Of what use, for example, to stimulate soft wood trade when Canada can market this great source of her wealth in the United States, while England can get this commodity from Scandinavia, a group of countries who are extremely good customers of British goods. Trade, like water finds its proper level if left alone, but an artificial raising of that level by means of tariffs and other political devices is dangerous and expensive as enclosing land below sea-level by means of dykes and pumping stations. But when an unproductive and uneconomical enterprise has been started and made fair progress, it is a little hard on its promoters to remove the state subsidy, the quota or the tariff-protection, without which it would never have been begun. But the hard law of the survival of the fittest seems to be overtaking industry, despite all attempts at artificial props and stays. The Ottawa Conference will have to get down to the fundamental of economic law, and decide what commodities the different units of the Empire can produce, and produce in such a manner that in quality and price they can hold their own in the markets of the world.

Tale of the Day.

The train was moving quickly out of the station as the little man dashed up the platform. From the last carriage window a woman waved a handkerchief frantically. The little man was about to tug open the door when a porter pulled him back. "You mustn't enter the train when it's moving," said the porter, firmly. "Besides, that compartment was engaged." The little man danced with rage. "Of course, it's engaged, you fool. It's engaged for my wife and me, and now she's away alone on our honeymoon."

Prince George in the Chair.

At the All-England Lawn Tennis Club dinner at the Empiro Rooms, London, the Czechoslovak Minister raised the merriest laugh. He compared the assembly to the "League of Nations with America in it." Prince George, who had seen many of the guests performing on the court during the afternoon, made an excellent chairman. He captivated everybody by his homely reference to "my father's former tenure of office." (The King, as Prince of Wales, was president of the All-England Club at the beginning of the great international epoch).

Forty Years' Tryst.

Five women friends met last month in the cloister at Westminster Abbey, and at night, after dinner, went to a theatre. Forty years ago they were employed by a Lambeth firm. On midsummer day one of them left to be married. Thereupon they vowed to meet at the cloisters every fifth anniversary of the wedding. The meetings have been regular kept up through the 40 years. There are now three married women and two spinsters.

Superstitious?

Several spectators at Hendon Air Force Display made the remarks, "This is probably the last Display." An officer of high rank replied emphatically that the discontinuing of so successful and useful a function had never even been suggested.

He added, humorously, that there was a general "gloomy complex," induced not altogether by the hard times, but, he thought, by the fact that this year's display was the thirteenth, that there were thirteen items, and that everybody expected either impossible weather or a had accident.

Never were the superstitious pessimists so completely at fault.

"L.G." on Disarmament.

Discussing the Hoover disarmament proposals at a meeting of Young Liberals in Kensington, Mr. Lloyd George said:—

"Don't let Europe have any puerile prejudice about being dictated to by America. Nonsense! 'They were quite willing to take the money of America.' Why should they not take the ideas of America? The idea of America is as good as its money. Take it, and make good use of it."

Mr. Lloyd George said he hoped no silly prejudices were going to stand in the way of allowing them to operate President Hoover's great manifesto to the full.

SHIPPING SERVICE FROM BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Ottawa, July 1.

Mr. Stevens, the Minister for Trade and Commerce, has issued a request for tenders for a shipping service from British Columbian ports to the East. The tenders are returnable by July 31, and the service will be on a monthly basis from Vancouver, New Westminster, Victoria, and other ports, to be increased if the traffic warrants it. It is provided in the call for tenders that when possible British ships shall be used. The ships are to be capable of carrying 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 ft. of lumber, but tenders must also undertake to handle other cargo like grain. A further provision is that the ships must load wholly in British Columbian ports.

There were only a few soldiers on duty when the "invaders" arrived, and they were unable to prevent the lowering of the flag.

OPTIMISM AND DETERMINATION

RULING SPIRIT AT OTTAWA
CONFERENCEBRITISH PRESS PRAISES DELEGATES' ATTITUDE

[REUTER AND BRITISH WIRELESS.]

LONDON, July 22.

The Conference at Ottawa has received a good Press. The Times says that the opening proceedings justify the confident hope that the delegates will be able to achieve agreements most valuable to the Empire and the world.

The Daily Mail: The delegates' speeches prove there is abundant ground for a wide extension of preferences.

Mr. Bennett's plan was enthusiastically welcomed by a Daily Express heading: "Bennett sets pace for Conference."

The Morning Post says that Mr. Bennett's proposals deserve the closest consideration by the delegates, while the Daily Telegraph is of opinion that Mr. Bennett's proposals certainly contain the nucleus of a plan for a mighty extension in inter-Imperial trade.

Mr. Baldwin's plea for a lowering in tariffs is approved by the Liberal Free Trade paper, the New Chronicle, which in referring to Mr. Bennett's suggestion that Britain might grant Canada further preferences points out that as Canadian goods are at present duty free, further preferences could only be given not by lowering tariffs, but by raising fresh ones.

The Daily Herald: Mr. Baldwin's plea is sound economics and sound sense, but chilling for hot-gospellers who want to ring a fence of tariffs round the Empire.

AN AUSPICIOUS START

OTTAWA, July 21.

An auspicious start was to-day given to the Imperial Economic Conference. The contacts renewed and established between Empire statesmen and the preliminary conversations in Ottawa have served to create a spirit of optimism and determination, which characterised the speeches at to-day's opening ceremony.

The proceedings were marked by impressive ceremonial, the Governor General of Canada, Lord Bessborough, being accompanied by an escort of Dragoons and Guardsmen in full dress uniform.

HIS MAJESTY THE KING'S MESSAGE

The Governor-General read the following message from the King:—
"My thoughts and prayers are with the delegates of my Government who are gathered in conference to-day to explore the means by which they may promote the prosperity of the peoples of this great Empire. At this conference you are opening a new page of history on which, within a few weeks, will be written a record of a determined effort to solve the difficulties weighing so heavily not only upon us but the whole world."

"It is my earnest hope that when this Conference rises there will be a record of results worthily reflecting the frankness, sincerity and spirit of helpfulness with which I feel confident your deliberations will be conducted. The British Empire is based on the principle of co-operation and it is now your common purpose to give the fullest possible effect to that principle in the economic sphere. By so doing you will set in motion beneficial forces within the British Commonwealth which may well extend their impulse also to the world at large. I pray that you may be given clear insight and strength of purpose for these ends."

Loyal Resolution.
A resolution that a reply be sent expressing the homage of the delegates to the King moved by the Canadian Premier, Mr. R. B. Bennett, and seconded by Sir Attila Chatterjee, the Indian leader, was unanimously adopted, all the delegates standing.

In welcoming the delegates on behalf of Canada, the Governor General said the Conference might well be the most momentous gathering ever held within the British Empire.

Canada's Offer.
After he had been appointed Chairman of Conference, Mr. R. B. Bennett announced that Canada proposed to grant to the United Kingdom an extension of the free list, to retain existing preferences in favour of Britain, and to increase preferences in respect of a selected list of articles which Britain was specially equipped to supply to Canadian markets without injuring the efficiency of Canadian enterprise.

In exchange, Canada asked for the retention of existing preferences and their effective extension to other natural and processed products of which the United Kingdom is an importer. This offer, said Mr. Bennett, would be applied in principle to other Dominions.

Empire Leadership.

Mr. Bennett said that the Conference would co-operate in determining a plan along such lines, whereby the Empire might continue in leadership among the nations of the world.

Canadian industries which had reached maturity under protective tariffs must support the Canadian Government's proposals because of the great advantages which could be secured for exporters of natural products.

Mr. Bennett said that the proposals were offered to all other parts of the Empire wherever their application would prove mutually advantageous.

Britain's Pledge.

The chief British delegate, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, pledged Britain to co-operate in developing Mr. Bennett's proposals. He said that of the trade carried on by the Empire 70 per cent. was still with foreign countries and only 30 per cent. among themselves.

The possibilities of expansion to-day were enormous, but looking to the future generations, as population increased, the scope could hardly be measured.

The first aim of the Conference should be to clear out channels of trade among themselves. For that purpose they need not measure too closely the relative value of the preferences given and received.

"If we all approach the problem with a view to seeing how much we can contribute to the common stock without detriment to our own national interests we shall not need to concern ourselves with the relative advantages obtained by each since we know that the increase in the purchasing power of any member of the Empire must show itself in increased Imperial trade and the prosperity of all."

Greater activity of Empire trade was the most hopeful means of stimulating a demand in world markets and of restoring a sound level of wholesale commodity prices.

Price Levels.
Mr. Baldwin emphasised that when he spoke of the Empire he

The orderly who snatched out the dagger and fled was arrested by Indian guards.

Capt. Coldestream recently saved an Indian patient's life by blood transfusion.

Shooting Instruction.

General Rundstedt has instructed the police to use their rifles promptly and energetically if necessary and the deposed Ministers of the Prussian Government have bowed to their fate under protest.

Paris, July 22.
The coup d'état which ousted the Prussian Ministry, the establishment of a virtual dictatorship of the Prussian state under Herr von Papan, and the rigorous suppression of Communist activity, is regarded in Paris as a new concession to Adolf Hitler, leader of the Nazi party, so bitter an enemy of the Socialists of Germany and so antagonistic to France.

ANTI-SEMITISM IN PRUSSIA.

BILL TO CONFISCATE PROPERTY.

Berlin.—A bill to confiscate the entire property of all East European Jews who entered Prussia since August 1, 1914, has been passed by the Prussian Diet after an all-night session in which the Communists sided with the Hitlerites. The measure demands that within three weeks the confiscated property be converted into means for aiding the unemployed.

Jews have been taken completely by surprise, no one in Jewish circles having had any inkling that such a bill was even contemplated.

The Prussian Diet also passed another bill prohibiting State theatres from employing Jews. It is considered that the Social-Democratic Government, which is still carrying on the administration of Prussia, will probably ignore the bill, and, in any case, that the Central Government will veto it.

was thinking not only of the Dominions and India but also of the Colonies. He said that among the factors which should operate towards the restoration of price levels were a recovery of confidence by traders, the provision of a market for their goods by the removal or limitation of existing barriers to trade, particularly arbitrary and erratic quota systems and exchange restrictions, a solution of the reparations and war debt problems, and a lessening of taxation and interest charges.

THE MANCHURIAN
PROBLEMSERIOUS VIEW TAKEN BY THE "SPECTATOR"

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, July 22.
THE pending crisis over Manchuria which the Lytton report reaches Geneva has aroused apprehensions in all thinking people despite the pre-occupation of Ottawa and Home problems.

The Spectator typically comments that prospects are extremely disquieting and everything indicates that Japan will refuse to assent to any arrangement interfering with the status of Manchukuo as being nominally independent but which is virtually Japan's de facto. With the history of Korea as an object lesson, neither the League nor the United States can tolerate that and therefore must decide how far to express their disapproval.

Meanwhile, the constant interference with Customs officials, apparently at Japanese instigation, may lead to serious complications before Lord Lytton reports.

CHINESE GUNBOATS
IN HONG KONG.TO RETURN TO CANTON
SOON.

Canton, July 22.—Dr. Chao Hsin Chu, Inspector-General of Foreign Affairs for Chekiang, Fukien, Kwangtung, Kwangsi and Kweichow, gave a brief outline of his recent activities in the course of a Press interview on Wednesday. The conversation took a dialogue form, and the substance was as follows:—

Q: When will you make your tour of inspection in Fukien, Kwangsi, Kweichow and other provinces?

A: The necessity of going to Kwangsi has been avoided by the settlement of the Lungchow incident locally. In the autumn I intend to take a trip to Fukien and Chekiang. But my personal visit to Kweichow in the near future is not probable owing to the lengthy journey involved.

Q: Can we hear something about your negotiations with the authorities in Hong Kong concerning the Chinese war vessels now remaining there?

A: The negotiations for their return are being conducted.

Q: Have you completed the negotiations for the taking over of the airplanes indentured by General Chang Hui Chang?

A: This matter, too, has also been satisfactorily settled. The five airplanes will be brought to Canton shortly.

"RED" REVERSES.

ANNIHILATION OR DISPERSAL.

Canton, July 22.—After having sustained repeated reverses at the hands of the Government Expeditionary Armies along the southern border of Kiangsi, the "Reds" are now retreating in disorder, and will probably remain in the north of Shunfeng. This is the gist of official reports received here yesterday.

The outlaws who originally planned to flee to their old lairs in Yutao and Hingkuo, will be hemmed in by Government troops from several directions.

The Government soldiers who are entrusted with the mission of following up the "Red" marauders, have now all taken up positions assigned to them in the coming cordon to round them up.

Communist Remnants.

Judging by the awkward position the "Reds" are now in, they will have either to surrender or disperse. Both General Yu Han Miao and General Heung Han Ping, Commanders of the 1st and 2nd Cantonese columns, respectively, have gone to the front to direct personally operations against the Communist remnants in the final stage of the anti-"Red" expedition.

General Li Yang King, Commander of the 3rd Army, is proceeding to-day by aeroplane to Nanchang, a border town of the Kwangtung province, to cheer the Cantonese punitive army now engaged in the final part of the "Red" elimination scheme on a large scale on behalf of General Chen Tsi Hong, Commander-in-Chief of the 1st Group Army.

Q: When will the new gunboats acquired by the Provincial Government be brought to Canton?

A: This vessel was purchased on behalf of the Salt Revenue Department of the Two Kwangs, and is not owned by the navy. Arrangements have been completed to take over the vessel.

Q: Have you completed the negotiations for the taking over of the airplanes indentured by General Chang Hui Chang?

A: This matter, too, has also been satisfactorily settled. The five airplanes will be brought to Canton shortly.

OPTIMISM AND DETERMINATION.

The United Kingdom Government placed before the Conference as its general objective, the expansion of Empire trade by a lowering of the trade barriers as between the several members of the Empire. They believed such an objective to be the one best calculated to ensure the permanence and increased prosperity of the Empire.

Helping World at Large.

By reviving and strengthening trade within the Empire they would be serving the interests of civilisation as a whole and taking the most practical means of hastening the economic recovery of the world at large.

Mr. S. M. Bruce (Australia) and Mr. J. G. Coates (New Zealand) followed Mr. Baldwin and expressed the hopefulness of their countries that the Conference would result in success.

Gold Standard.

Mr. Havanga (South Africa) considered that the world required a measure of value more stable than gold, but favoured the restoration of the gold standard.

Sir Atul Chatterjee (India) dwelt upon the impending Indian Federal constitution and said it was of great importance to the future of India that the scheme of Protection should be handed over to the new Government in full working order.

Irish Leader's Speech.

After other delegates had given their blessing to the idea of closer Empire economic co-operation, all ears were strained to hear Mr. Sean O'Kelly, the Vice-President of the Irish Free State Executive Council, who indirectly alluded to the new British tariff against Ireland as likely to involve substantial changes in the direction of their trade.

Moreover, said Mr. O'Kelly, the Free State was economically a young country and consequently it was difficult to see the lines upon which the Free State contribution to the common endeavour must proceed.

Five Committees.

The Conference adjourned for private committee work, a meeting of the heads of the delegations this evening deciding to establish five committees to deal with (1) the promotion of inter-Empire trade, (2) customs administration, (3) commercial relations with foreign nations, (4) monetary and financial questions, and (5) methods of economic co-operation.

PSYCHICAL RESEARCH.

PHYSICAL PHENOMENA OF SPIRITUALISM.

On the occasion of the jubilee of the Society for Psychical Research a paper by Mrs. Henry Sidgwick on the history of the society was read by her brother, Lord Balfour, to a large gathering in the Conway Hall.

Mrs. Sidgwick said that she was one of the very few now living who had been cognizant from the very beginning of what had been in the minds of the founders of the society, and who had been from the earliest days in the inner circle of workers. The society had printed its Proceedings since the foundation of the society in 1882 and also a private Journal since 1884.

The chief classes of phenomena in which the society originally intended to inquire were thought-reading, mesmerism, Reichenbach's experiments, apparitions, and haunted houses, and the physical phenomena of spiritualism. In all these departments much and valuable work had been done. Thought-reading, now known as telepathy, had now been securely established as a fact in nature. Pioneer work had been done, especially by Edmund Gurney, in mesmerism, now called hypnotism, and the whole subject had long since been handed over to orthodox science. Apparitions, phantasms of the living, and similar phenomena had been carefully examined; most of them that seemed to be genuine also seemed to be explicable by telepathy. The only department of the society's work in which no appreciable progress had been made, notwithstanding continued efforts, was that of the so-called physical phenomena. There might possibly even here be a genuine residuum.

Distinguished Presidents.

They were proud of their presidents and had been fortunate in the men who had honoured their society by presiding over it. In addition to the founders, Sir William Barrett, Henry Sidgwick, F. W. H. Myers, and Edmund Gurney, they had had as presidents, Professor Balfour Stewart, Lord Rayleigh, Sir William Crookes, Sir Oliver Lodge, all distinguished in physical science; Lord Balfour, Professor Henri Bergson, and Professor F. C. S. Schiller among philosophers; Professor Charles Richet, and Professor Hans Driesch among biologists; Professor William James, Professor William McDougall, and Dr. T. W. Mitchell among psychologists; and many others.

Mrs. Sidgwick concluded that she felt now as she felt when she first engaged in it that psychical research was some of the most important work in which they could engage for the extension of knowledge and the benefit of mankind.

SPEEDING IN STUBBS ROAD.

DANGEROUS DRIVING SEQUEL.

Wong Chu Foo, a driver of private car 55, appeared on a summons before Mr. Schofield yesterday charging him with dangerous driving in Stubbs Road on the afternoon of the 10th inst.

Sergt. Doyle, who was out on patrol on his cycle, said he had to apply his brakes on coming upon two cars, one of which, driven by the defendant, was overtaking and passing the other.

Defendant said he was following in the wake of another car driven by a European who repeatedly signalled to him to pass. He did so only on the third time of signalling.

His Worship imposed a fine of $25.

Subsequently Mr. Horace Lo appeared for the defendant and asked for a reduction of the fine, point to the extenuating circumstances in the invitation of the European to defendant to pass. It was natural, Mr. Lo argued, that the defendant should have accepted such an invitation coming as it did from a man on whose judgment he thought he might rely.

His Worship replied that he could not take that circumstance into consideration, and confirmed his previous decision.

CHANGING JAPAN.

NOTORIOUS INSTITUTION ABOLISHED.

PASSING OF THE GEISHA.

Tokyo.—Three typical Japanese institutions which reached their zenith in the Tokugawa days are now the victims of modernism and seem destined to face extinction, namely, the Yoshiwara, the world famous licensed quarter of Tokyo which economic pressure is driving from business; the Geisha who is rapidly being displaced by the waitress and dancing girl; and the Kabuki drama, popular for over three centuries which is giving way to modern plays and revues. All of these have lost much of their appeal and fascination for the public and particularly for the youth of modern Japan.

The disappearance of the Yoshiwara will automatically rid Japan of one of those institutions which from the foreign viewpoint has cast a stigma on Japan's moral reputation. The closing of the Yoshiwara in Tokyo does not end the system but it is likely that an institution which in unable to survive in the capital will not long linger in other cities of the Empire.

The end of the Yoshiwara has come suddenly. Only a year ago, The League of Nations Commission for Investigation into the International Traffic in Women and Children was in Japan and made a thorough investigation of prostitution in this country. At that time there was a movement to abolish the licensed system by legislation but there was no evidence that within so short a time economic necessity would obliterate a system which had been in practice for over three centuries.

Famous in Literature.

The Yoshiwara has been famous in song, in literature, in drama and its scenes have been the frequent subject of print artists. Japanese literature is full of romantic stories centering about the gay quarter of Tokyo (formerly Yedo) in which the heroine has generally found her way to the Yoshiwara in obedience to the dictates of parents or family and thus sacrificed her life or has been sold into bondage by ruffians for profit.

Rivals.

The main reason which has led the licensed quarter to the verge of bankruptcy and which equally threatens the existence of the Geisha is the competition of gayer amusement places at more reasonable prices. Several thousand cafes have sprung up in Tokyo where thousands of girls are employed and it is no secret that many of these establishments serve other purposes than the dispensing of food or drinks. It is in these cafes and in association with waitresses that the youth of Japan to-day spends its money, and it is far more in accord with their modest purses.

The Geisha.

The fate of the Geisha has hung longer in the balance but she is none the less doomed. There is a certain fascination about the Geisha which still delights the eye and carries a reminder of the picturesque days of Yedo and of the Tokugawa era. The appeal of the Geisha is essentially a classic one in which modernism finds no place. The tea house, her background, the kimono her native garb, the classical dance and the samisen do not lend themselves to western transformation. Her modern counterpart is the cafe waitress and dancing girl but she is also her dandy rival.

The Drama.

Change of taste and manners is also accountable for the marked decline in the popularity of the classical drama and in particular the Kabuki play. Audiences are now bored with the slow and long drawn-out action of the classical dramas and prefer the modern plays and particularly the modern revues which are drawing the largest houses.

The economic depression of which Japan is suffering with the rest of the world has served to hasten changes which were in the making and to speed the process of westernization to which Japan seems irrevocably committed.—Japan Advertiser.

NEW C.K.R. DIRECTOR.

ENERGETIC POLICY FORESHADOWED.

Canton, July 22.—Before a very large gathering Mr. Li Long Yu, the new Managing-Director of the Canton-Kowloon Railway, was formally inducted into office at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. His oath of loyal service to Party and State was taken in the presence of Mr. Li Luk Chiao, Member of the S.W. Political Council, who represented the Kwangtung Provincial Council, to witness the ceremony.

After the ceremony, Director Li in the course of a press interview remarked that he accepted his new post with a great deal of diffidence for the greater part of his past career had been occupied with military affairs. But he would adhere to his resolution to carry out a policy of eight characters, Yu Shi Chiu Tsoo, Put Tor Zik Hung ("I will face my duties and perform them with dispatch but if I can not make a success of my job, I quit without any delay").

The new Managing Director will first make a close survey of the Railway, and will hold a number of conferences with his Departmental chiefs in order to ascertain their views. Any new programme will not be launched until careful investigations have been made. As regards the prospects of changes in personnel, Mr. Li says that there will be very few changes. Several Department Heads have tendered their resignation, and their places will be filled by new appointees but otherwise the same staff will carry on.

PAINS AFTER EATING
STOP AT ONCE!
IT'S not the food you eat which causes pain, but the excess stomach acid which sets up food fermentation, generates painful gases and attacks the delicate stomach lining. This excess acid must, therefore, be neutralized before you can expect any relief. To do this, take a little "Bismarated" Magnesia after meals or whenever pain is felt. The dangerous acid is immediately neutralized and all pains and discomfort cease at once. "Bismarated" Magnesia is used and prescribed by doctors all over the world because it is the one certain cure for digestive pains after eating.

Kroesen, Stadhouder, 17, The Hague, to whom all inquiries should be addressed. Established leagues in countries not yet represented are invited to join. Only one league from any country can be accepted and only leagues which have no commercial objects will be admitted. The league will issue an official set of rules for international tournaments and competitions. These will be supplementary to the Portland Club laws, which will be adopted so far as they apply.

An International Tournament under the auspices of the league will be held in London next year. New rules for the Gold Cup contest held by the British Bridge League are now being drawn up. It has been decided to limit strictly the systems which players may use, and all private systems and conventions are to be debated. Entries for the Gold Cup contest (teams of four) should be sent to the Secretary-General, the British Bridge League, Charing Cross House, Charing Cross-road, London, W.C2.

STRUCK AT A SEANCE.

SPIRIT, OR ANGRY WITNESS?

Vienna.—In a Vienna local court the magistrate was called upon to decide whether a box on the ears was administered at a seance by a disembodied spirit or by a corporeal Viennese plumber. The latter was charged by the plaintiff, Herr Franz, with hitting him in the face during the seance. "It was a phenomenon," declared the plumber, Herr Thomas, to the magistrate. "It was the spirit Amru which hit him. He never did like Franz."

Franz sprang up angrily, crying: "That's a libel!" The magistrate protested that he could really not decide as to the likes or dislikes of a disembodied spirit.

When Fraulein Hermine, the medium, testified that the defendant could easily have struck the plaintiff unobserved in the darkened room, the magistrate said: "Thank you. Now I can pronounce sentence. Firstly I declare Amru, although he is not formally charged, to be entirely innocent. Secondly, I fine Herr Thomas 100 schilling (24, or four days' imprisonment).

"HEARTBREAK."

WAR ROMANCE AT THE KING'S.

A trade notice states:—

Love greater than the desire for fame and more powerful than the fear of death is portrayed by Charles Farrell, co-starred with

Madge Evans in "Heartbreak," thrilling Fox drama of romance showing at the King's Theatre today.

Briefly the drama deals with the romance of a young American diplomat, Charles Farrell, and a beautiful Viennese countess, Madge

Evans, who meet and fall in love during America's neutrality. Only the certainty of America's being drawn into the world war, then raging, prevents an announcement of marriage.

The countess' twin brother,

Hardie Albright, is a soldier in an Austrian army branch. A bond of deep devotion exists between them, far stronger than that of the ordinary brother and sister. She has, too, another suitor, Captain

Welke, portrayed by Paul Cavanagh, also a ranking ace in the Austrian service.

With America's declaration of war, Farrell immediately enlists in the A.E.F., but before leaving for the front where he will be called upon to meet both Albright and Cavanagh as enemies face to face, he promises his sweetheart that he will never do combat with her brother.

Under the impression he is fighting Cavanagh, Farrell brings Albright down in death. The realization of his horrible mistake leads him to a deep hatred for war and he deserts.

Branded a deserter, scorned by the one girl in all the world, his heartbreak was complete. How he atoned and proved the world that his desertion was honourable makes up the thrilling climax of this touching romance.

"MY SIN."

TALLULAH AT HER BEST.

A trade notice states:—

Tallulah Bankhead hits her cinematic stride. Co-starred with Frederic March. Now we know why London acclaimed this American girl as its most beloved stage star. She is intriguing, alluring, ten times more beautiful than she appeared to be in her first picture.

She has her first real opportunity on the screen, and surpasses her personal triumph in her first screen role.

And "My Sin" which is coming to the King's Theatre on Sunday has another great dramatic role for Frederic March—a distinct characterization of the type this versatile young actor does better than anyone else.

"My Sin" tells of a woman's regeneration, her efforts to efface

the brand of shame that shadows her past—her search for love and happiness. It tells, too, the story of a man, who, in saving a woman, saves himself.

George Abbott, director, and adaptor of "My Sin," has been doing real things with each new production he undertakes to direct.

He does some startling things with "My Sin" and surpasses the stellar director of "Secrets of a Secretary," his recent sensational hit.

As usual with a New York-made production, the supporting cast includes the pick of the Broadway favourites—Harry Davenport, Scott

Kolk, Anne Sutherland, Margaret

Adams, Jay Fasset, Lily Chill.

"HONKY TONK."

"SOPHIE" THE ORIGINAL
SHIMMY SHAKER.

A trade notice states:—

Sophie Tucker, the original shimmy shaker, is at the Queen's

Theatre in "Honky Tonk," Warner

Bros. latest talking, singing Vitaphone production.

Though that above fact has been quite generally overlooked, vaudeville's famous "red hot mamma" was really the one who introduced the shimmy to New York, and thereby induced a gasp which was heard the entire length of the Great White Way, for Sophie, always in the vanguard of her profession, shivered with such vigorous abandon that she shook the city to its foundations and gave the Broadway something new to talk about.

Some time later the enterprising

Miss Tucker found Gilda Gray doing a shiver in Chicago to such small returns, that she immediately took an interest in her, and after "building up" her importance, took Gilda to New York and aided her in getting the proper start in the Metropolis. Within a short time Gilda Gray was recognized as America's leading "exponent of the shimmy. Sophie exulted.

"My friends have been telling me for years," she said recently,

"that if I don't stop extending help to younger performers some protégé of mine will come along and step into my shoes. But in Gilda's case it wasn't my shoes, anyway!"

"Honky Tonk," a story of the mother love of a cabaret songstress, was written by Leslie S. Barrows and adapted for the screen by Graham Baker. The cast includes beside Miss Tucker, Lila Lee, Audrey Ferris, George Duryn,

Mahlon Hamilton and John T.

Murray as well as a host of singers and dancers.

THE PHILIPPINES UNIVERSITY.

MESSRS. ROOSEVELT AND QUEZON SATISFIED WITH ECONOMIES.

Manila.—Upon motion of Senate President Manuel Quezon and seconded by Governor General Theodore Roosevelt, the board of visitors passed a resolution expressing thorough satisfaction with the way the board regents of the University of the Philippines has handled the financial situation in the university and congratulating administrative officials of the university for the manner in which they met the reduction in appropriations for 1933.

The resolution was passed during the joint meeting of the board of visitors and the board of regents after a close inquiry into the plans and policies of the university during which practically every school and college was completely overhauled.

The attitude of the board of visitors toward the elimination of university units and activities was indicated when President Quezon said that under the present financial conditions he is not in favour of maintaining any government activity which is not very important, although he has no objection to self-supporting institutions.

President Quezon said that in all deliberations to make university units self-supporting, the poor class should not be forgotten. For this reason the university should go slow in raising tuition fees in the school of forestry and college of agriculture because these are most useful to the poor class of people.

LAND TROUBLES IN PHILIPPINES.

SITUATION NOT AS BAD AS FEARED.

Manila.—That conditions in Nueva Ecija are not as bad as the constabulary here at first thought was reported to Colonel Clarence H. Bowers, acting chief of the constabulary, from the district commander of southern Luzon.

According to the report received by Colonel Bowers the tenants have taken advantage of the rice planting season to impose upon their landlords. Many tenants, according to the acting constabulary chief, have refused to go to work unless given more advantageous terms. He said, however, that this is a common thing and has occurred in previous years.

Red Agitators.

However, the situation recently has been aggravated because of the activities of agitators. Two days ago, the red flag was raised in a barrio of Santa Rosa by communists. The constabulary intervened and arrested those responsible for the incident.

Major Zablan will remain in Nueva Ecija to conduct further investigation and to maintain peace and order in the province. The 20 soldiers who were sent to reinforce the constabulary force of Nueva Ecija will also remain there until after the situation warrants their departure.
